incontri del terzo luogo & trans europe halles meeting 79

19/24 MAY 2015
LECCE, MANIFATTURE KNOS

PROGRAMME / ENGLISH VERSION

TEH Meeting 79

What would happen if the managers of European cultural centers disappeared all at once? Can management be accomplished when it is no longer needed?

Organizing means planning everything and leaving no room for the unforeseen, or does it mean creating the best conditions for something unexpected to take place? And what if minimal care could be enough to leave room for spontaneity, without turning everything into chaos? Can we imagine a space that anyone can use and transform freely, without imposing the survival of the fittest? How is political dignity given to indecision?

Incontri del terzo luogo

With his theory of the "third landscape", the famous gardener Gilles Clément argues that spaces usually treated as neglected are the most important ones: they are privileged areas of receptivity for biological diversity and the places of biological invention. It is road edges, abandoned factories or quarries, eluded spaces. A couple of years ago Manifatture Knos and Clément started to question what could be "third spaces": not just spaces abandoned by man, but inhabited places. The project Incontri del terzo luogo (Encounters of the Third Space) was created to start research with practical workshops involving the transformation of some areas of the city which are aimed at open spaces of indecisions.
